

AS SEEN IN

The Telegraph

How to hit the right note with your music room design

As part of a full house renovation, Caroline Milns, head of interior design at Zulufish, ensured her clients' musical taste was honoured. Presenting 12 of their favourite albums as bespoke wall art, in partnership with HUX London, bespoke storage also created space for music books and a dedicated spot for a record player. Tying the room together, Caroline says designing a custom piece of furniture helped conceal plugs and wiring, enabling the record player to be the objet d'art of the room. Premium materials and custom finishes add sophistication to a music room, according to Wiktorja Kopycka, lead interior designer on OBMI's London team. A place of sanctuary and wellness, integrated technology for lighting and sound creates an immersive experience.

Read more here